CryoVation to host GAWDA Regional Meeting in Sunny Florida

FORT MYERS, Fla. (Jan. 15, 2010) – Unique speakers and an afternoon of golf are on tap when CryoVation hosts the annual Southeastern zone regional meeting for the Gases and Welding Distributors Association (GAWDA) March 2 at Raptor Bay Golf Club in Fort Myers FL. Manufacturers and distributors from states throughout the country are expected to attend.

The oxygen challenges for a climb up Mount Everest – and the adventure itself - will be presented by Christopher Guest, a distributor sales manager at Air Liquide who scaled Mount Everest last May. Other speakers are Jim Glessner, president of Trackabout, Inc., who will outline the step approach to business growth and talk about cylinder tracking; and Nick Covino, an instructor from the renowned David Leadbetter Golf Academy in Naples, who will discuss the mental aspects of the game and provide hands-on instruction. Lloyd Robinson, president of Awisco and President Elect of GAWDA, will open the 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. program, which also will include golf games, an 18-hole golf tournament and an after-golf social and networking event.

The day before, on Monday March 1, CryoVation will host an open house at its Fort Myers headquarters, featuring equipment demonstrations.
